Judge Holds Klan Burned and Beat Men, Denies Suit

Court Says Hooded Order's Hands Filthy and Cannot Gain Relief From State.

Pittsburgh, April 13.—(AP)—A stern indictment of the Ku Klux Klan, in which it was held to be responsible for riots, bloodshed and the burning of men alive, was made here late today by Federal Judge W. H. S. Thomson, in an opinion dismissing an injunction suit brought by the order against five former members. Damages of $500,000 were denied the Klan.

The court, after hearing sensational testimony for five days, including a denial by Imperial Wizard Hiram W. Evans, held that the organization came into the court of equity with "filthy hands" and could not gain any relief from him.

Judge Thomson placed the costs upon the Klan.

The court upheld testimony offered by the defendants against the Klan, that klansmen had burned a negro alive in Texas; had flogged citizens; had maintained a secret terrorist organization known as the "knight riders" and "black robe" gang; had fostered riots; had caused bombs to be set off; had kidnapped a child in Pittsburgh; and had stirred up racial and religious feelings throughout the country.

Three witnesses heard. Evans had denied all charges, including allegations, the existence of any "black robe" and "knight rider" Klan.

W. G. Seemiller, Philadelphia, last witness called by the defense, charged that a super-secret order did exist within the Klan and offered in evidence a hood, with skull and crossbones, and a black robe containing the Klan insignia.

Pointing out that much of the defense testimony came from klansmen, the court said it had no difficulty in finding that the Klan "has established and is maintaining a form of despotic rule which is being operated in secret, under direct sanction and authority of the plaintiff's chief officers. That in violation of the rights and liberties of the people, it has set up tribunals not known to the law, before which citizens of the commonwealth, not members of the Klan, are brought and subjected to some form of trial, and upon conviction, severe corporal punishments are imposed, painful, humiliating and often brutal in their character, and in some instances, destructive of life itself."

"That under the direct authorization of the principal officers of the Klan in the state, men are designated for punishment, and are punished and maltreated without any legal charge being preferred against them, and without a hearing or trial, in open and flagrant violation of the constitution and laws of the land."

"That the plaintiff organization, through its actual operations and teachings, have stirred up racial and religious prejudices, fomented disorders, and encouraged riots and unlawful assemblies, which have resulted in flagrant branches of the peace, defiance of the law, bloodshed and loss of life."

"That in the secret opinions of the corporation's activities, and in hostility to the civil authorities, military organizations are established and maintained, with arms, regalia and equipment, with officers of varying rank and military titles; these officers

2 GRADY DOCTORS REFUSE TO SERVE

Dr. J. R. Childs and Dr. W. L. Champion Turn Down Places on 1928 Committee.

Two prominent doctors named to the 1928 Grady hospital executive committee, respondent in ouster proceedings filed in Fulton superior court by the 1927 executive committee, were appointed without their consent and have subsequently declined to serve, it was announced Friday by Attorney James A. Branch, of Branch & Howard, plaintiffs' counsel.

The two men, Dr. J. R. Childs and Dr. W. L. Champion, have confirmed the statement of Mr. Branch, both declining, however, to comment on their action.

Contention over the alleged mismanagement of Grady hospital was climaxed two weeks ago when the 1927 group, appointed by the hospitals and charities committee of council during December, brought quo warranto proceedings to ouster the committee appointed to succeed it last March by the 1928 hospitals and charities body.

The case will be called Saturday by Judge Virlyn B. Moore for calendar assignment. While court records show no formal court bill has been returned to the original petition, plaintiffs' counsel has been supplied with what is reputed to be the respondents' contemplated answer.

According to Mr. Branch, this statement contains a general denial of charges that the 1928 group was illegally elected, with no right under city ordinance to interrupt the five and a half-year term to which the 1927 committee was appointed in December.

Plaintiffs also contended, in seeking to ouster Dr. Joseph Hines, chairman, and members of his committee, that affairs at Grady hospital have been thrown into confusion by the sudden change in administration.

Dr. Marion Benson, as chairman of the 1927 group, and members of his committee are plaintiffs.

Honorable Russell, respondents' counsel, is out of the city until Monday and could not be reached for a statement.

Defendants in the suit are not required by law to file answer before the case comes up for hearing, Judge Moore says.

DIX, FILM ACTOR'S CONDITION SERIOUS AFTER OPERATION

Los Angeles, April 13.—(AP)—Richard Dix, film actor, operated on three days ago for appendicitis, was reported in a critical condition today at Roosevelt hospital.

Dix's operation was an emergency one to prevent rupture of the appendix. He had a severe cold at the time and since the operation peritonitis and lung complications have set in. Hospital authorities said he had a "very poor night—did not rest well and coughed all night."

NEW YORK POLICE HANDICAP PETTING BY TAXICAB RULE

New York, April 13.—There are to be handicaps to petting in taxicabs. The police are to enforce strictly a rule that the interior of a cab must be visible from the outside; the rear window must be at least eight inches by twenty.

COTTON TRADING BILLS ADVOCATED BEFORE CONGRESS

New Orleans Man Tells Senate Committee of Sudden Price Decline; Clayton Hides Wealth.

Washington, April 13.—(AP)—Alleged statistical sins of the department of agriculture in connection with cotton carryover figures got into the limelight today before the senate subcommittee investigating the 1927 price slump.

E. B. Stern, president of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange, had been called to the stand, replacing William L. Clayton, Texas cotton merchant, who has been under direct or cross-examination for more than two weeks in connection with charges of market rigging, made against his firm by Arthur R. Marsh, New York cotton broker.

Clayton Quits Stand.

Senator Smith, of South Carolina, committee chairman, insisted, however, that J. H. Gilbert, Marsh's lawyer, wind up with Clayton today and this was done in a final burst of charges and denials, featured by a graphic story of 1925-26 operations of Clayton which he said had inspired the charges against him.

Senator Smith started right off with Stern, asking to what the New Orleans cotton man attributed the 1927 cotton price disaster. Stern hesitatingly replied that the two department of agriculture statements issued September 15, 1927, were largely responsible.

Bear Prediction.

One was a prediction of a downward price trend in the face of bullish market conditions, which hit the market "like a bolt from the blue," Stern said, and the carryover estimated which New Orleans exchange officials believe to have been 700,000 to 800,000 bales in excess of the actual totals.

These statements came out on the heels of government reports as to the size of the coming crop showing effects of weevil depredations tended to reduce the total, Stern said, adding that at that time there were well-founded predictions in New Orleans that the maximum would be nearer 12,000,000 than 13,000,000 bales while the consumption of American cotton, the preceding year had been between 15,000,000 and 16,000,000 bales.

Reach 30 Cents Pound.

There were even predictions that cotton might reach 30 cents a pound, said, and the most conservative opinion would be that it would rule between 22 1/2 and 25 and 28 cents.

Telegrams exchanged with Secretary Jardine seeking to have him disavow the carryover estimate and charging that more than 50 per cent of the figures on which it was based were borrowed from the Manchester, England Cotton association report, were read into the record by Stern.

He also put in the list of objections to the British figures as well as those compiled by the government in Washington made up of Secretary Hester, of the New Orleans exchange, a recognized leader among cotton statisticians of the world.

Forgot Census Figure.

"They didn't even take into account the census bureau figures," Senator Smith broke in.

"That would make it all the worse," Stern answered, saying he had accepted the statement of Secretary Jardine to the contrary.

"But we contended that the government had no right to put out as official government estimates figures gathered from sources over which the government had no control," he continued.

"If they had said they were quoting the New York Commercial and Financial Chronicle, you could have put your own discount on them," asked Senator Smith.

Carries Weight.

"Precisely," said Stern. "But an official government statement always carries great weight."

The same thing had been true as

6 World Powers Invited To Sign Pact Banning War

$50,000 RESIDENCE BOUGHT BY K. OF C.

Catholic Societies To Use Handsome Building on Peachtree, Near Fourteenth, for Clubhouse.

Purchase of a large stone residence on Peachtree street, near Fourteenth street, to be used as a clubhouse for the Knights of Columbus and other Catholic societies, was announced Wednesday by Richard A. Magill, well-known Atlanta business man.

The property was purchased from Mrs. May H. Hubbard and Mrs. Ellen S. Hord in the name of the Columbia Building association, of which Mr. Magill is president.

The residence, known as the old Brown home, at 1198 Peachtree street, is of elaborate design and contains 15 large rooms, making it particularly suitable for a clubhouse. It is situated on a large lot, measuring 90 feet frontage on Peachtree street and extending back to a depth of 200 feet, giving ample room in the rear of the present structure for additional units to the clubhouse in the future.

The consideration was not announced, but it is understood to be in excess of $50,000.

Possession of the residence is to pass into the hands of the new owners in May, Mr. Magill said. Several thousand dollars will be expended for immediate alterations and it is believed the new club will be ready for occupancy by July 1. The present Knights of Columbus hall is at 33 Pine street, N. E.

The Columbia Building association was organized some time ago for the purpose of obtaining a new clubhouse for the Knights of Columbus and a meeting center for other Catholic societies. It is surrounded by other large residences of massive architectural type and is regarded as being ideally located. It is but a short distance from Piedmont park.

While care obviously was taken in selection of the future Catholic club center to provide room for expansion by erection of additional buildings, no definite plans have been made for further improvement of the property, other than renovating the present structure, however. M. Magill, president, and L. D. Shaw, secretary and treasurer, C. L. McGowan, secretary of the Knights of Columbus, Atlanta chapter.

Democracy Shy AT ANNUAL FETE

Campaign Year Sees Banquet in Honor of Jefferson Missing and Leaders Silent.

BY SAM W. SMALL, Special Staff Correspondent.

Washington, April 13.—This being Jefferson's birthday anniversary many tributes were paid to the "Father of American democracy" by persons both in and out of congress, but there was no formal celebration by any democratic organization. Often in years past there has been a Jefferson day dinner and conspicuous democrats did the orating in honor of Jeffersonian principles.

The particular campaign year is carrying in its bosom too much party dynamite to risk such a celebration, notwithstanding the notable success of the Jackson banquet in January.

Down at the University of Virginia, one of his works in which Jefferson took special pride, there were impressive ceremonies. The principal orator was Claude G. Bowers, editor of the New York Evening World, who fired the hearts of the faithful sentimentally at the Jackson banquet and thereby wrecked a crowded dance hall here at 11 o'clock tonight.

U. S., France, Germany, England, Italy and Japan May Meet and Discuss Treaty.

Washington, April 13.—(AP)—Great Britain, Germany, Italy and Japan were invited today to join France and the United States in the negotiation of a world-wide treaty binding the nations not to resort to war with one another.

The invitation was extended by Secretary Kellogg, after an agreement on the procedure with Aristide Briand, foreign minister of France.

In a note to the four governments, presented simultaneously in London, Berlin, Rome and Tokyo today, by American diplomatic representatives, Mr. Kellogg outlined the discussions on the proposal between himself and M. Briand and submitted a draft representing in a general way the form of treaty the United States is prepared to sign. Its language is practically identical with the original treaty proposed by M. Briand to the United States last June.

Answers Requested.

The four governments were told the United States "would be pleased to be informed as promptly as may be convenient whether they are in a position to give favorable consideration to the conclusion of a treaty such as transmitted, and, if not, what specific modifications in the text would make it acceptable."

With the note and draft treaty were presented a copy of the text of M. Briand's original proposal and copies of all the correspondence on the subject between France and the United States, which have been made public by the government. Mr. Kellogg said, were clearly set forth in the correspondence.

The government of the United States, as stated in its note of February 27, 1928, desires to see the institution of war abolished. Mr. Kellogg's note declared, "and stands ready to conclude with the French, British, German, Italian and Japanese governments."

TENNESSEE PARTY TO GREET MOORE

Appearance of Young Southern Girl in Atlanta Grand Opera Bringing Native State Delegation

BY PAUL STEVENSON.

When Grace Moore, Tennessee girl, now one of the stars of the Metropolitan Opera company, makes her debut in Atlanta in the role of Micaela in Bizet's "Carmen" Saturday afternoon, April 28, she will be greeted by a large delegation of Tennessee citizens who will come to Atlanta to hear her sing with the famous Metropolitan organization.

News that her father, Colonel R. L. Moore, of Jellico, Tenn., together with her mother and sister, Emily, have made reservations for this opera was made public Friday by the Atlanta Music Festival association.

In addition to close personal friends and relatives there will be delegations from several Tennessee cities, among them Knoxville, Nashville, Chattanooga, Newport, Greenville and Johnson City.

Miss Moore has won the greatest success in the Metropolitan that has been scored by an American girl in that organization since Marion Talbot made her sensational New York debut several years ago.

After nearly one week of the large single ticket sale in Atlanta's 18 years of Metropolitan opera, box office managers at the Civic Music company, where the sale is in progress, reported Friday morning that the demand for the Tennessee delegation was exceptionally choice seats still remain, and urged all persons to inspect the remaining ones as soon as possible.

The big demand for seats for the Wednesday afternoon performance, when the double bill of "Hansel and Gretel" and "Pagliacci" will be sung, proves that to be the highest point of interest in the season, with "The Barber of Seville" and "Die Walkure" running it a close race but the demand on the whole has been consistently large, indicating that the complete program has the same enthusiastic approval of the general public that it received from the officials of the Music Festival association.

NAME OF DOHENY RE-ENTERS TRIAL OF TEAPOT DEAL

Government Closes Case Against Sinclair With Allusion to Doheny's Gift to Fall.

Washington, April 13.—(AP)—Clanking its headlong rush to get its conspiracy case against Harry F. Sinclair before the jury, the government rested today after the defense had prevented—for the time at least—the introduction of testimony which the prosecution considers highly important.

Two questions were taken under consideration by Justice Jennings Bailey for decision on Monday. These dealt with $25,000 in Liberty bonds which Sinclair gave Albert B. Fall when he made a trip to Russia on the Elk Hills lease Fall gave E. L. Doheny. The court said he was inclined to exclude this evidence but withheld a ruling on both issues until the resumption of the trial on Monday.

Owen J. Roberts, special government counsel contended that the Liberty bond transaction, although it took place after the date set in the indictment as the termination of the alleged conspiracy, showed the "color" and the secrecy of the relations between Fall and Sinclair. Martin W. Littleton, for the defense, maintained that such testimony was not germane because the acts which it covered took place "long after" the period covered in the indictment.

The bribery indictment against Edward L. Doheny, Jr., growing out of his delivery in a "little black satchel" of $100,000 from his father to Fall, then secretary of the interior, was nolle prossed at Roberts' request by Justice Bailey. "This was for the purpose, Roberts said outside the court, of bringing the younger Doheny to Washington Monday to testify for the government. He intended, he said, to use Doheny to show that Fall readily accepted money to which he was not entitled from persons interested in oil leases."

Defense counsel objected to Le bringing up of the Elk Hills lease in any way on the ground that it was irrelevant to the conspiracy charge against Sinclair. The court ruling on this question will determine whether Doheny will take the stand.

For nearly an hour this morning Roberts read to the jury an agreement supplementary to the Teapot Dome lease given Sinclair by Fall, governing the construction of coastal storage tanks for naval oil.

Among the spectators today was Sinclair's 13-year-old daughter, Virginia, who is spending a week-end vacation with her father and mother being with her in the front of the courtroom were Sinclair's mother and wife; Monsignor Farrell, of Wichita, Kan., brother of the oil operator's wife, and her sister, Miss Farrell.

Upon the entry of the jury at the outset, Mrs. Sinclair and Miss Farrell observed them closely. The for

GIRL STOWAWAY INQUIRY STARTED

Destroyers Are Ordered Into Port; Enlisted Men Facing Charges After Friends Found.

Washington, April 13.—(AP)—The destroyers Brooks and Williams were ordered today to proceed to Mayport, Fla., in connection with the court of inquiry ordered by the navy department on the discovery of five girl stowaways on ships of the scouting fleet. Men aboard the ships are wanted as witnesses.

Four of the girls were from New Orleans, while the fifth, 15 years old, was from St. Petersburg, Fla. Navy department information today was that the light cruiser Concord at Key West, that ship presumably having taken some of them from other vessels. The fifth was landed by the destroyer Billingsley.

The navy department said today that after witnesses among enlisted men and civilian relatives and acquaintances of the five stowaways had been questioned, the enlisted men found to be involved would be court-martialed.

They will be charged either with "aiding and abetting civilians to take passage on a naval vessel," or, if any moral turpitude is involved, with "scandalous conduct."

Fears Are Stilled As Radio Flashes Report of Arrival

Driven 400 Miles Off Course By Storm, Fuel Exhausted, Bremen Comes Down Five Miles From Lonely Fishing Village, Point Armour, As World Waits For Reports of First East to West Crossing.

PLANE IS DAMAGED, BUT CREW ESCAPES WITHOUT SCRATCH

Huenefeld Radios Message Telling of Accomplishment of Dangerous Passage; Berlin, Dublin and Ireland Rejoice Over Arrival 1,300 Miles Away From New York Destination.

The German Junkers monoplane Bremen, flying from Ireland to America, piloted by Captain Hermann Koehl, German, and Colonel James E. Fitzmaurice, commandant of the Irish Free State air force, and carrying Baron Ehrenfried Gunther von Huenefeld, personal friend of the German crown prince, was forced down on Greenley Island, one of the members of the Belle Isle group between Labrador and Newfoundland at 9:30 o'clock Atlanta time Friday morning.

Greenley Island is 360 miles airline northwest of St. Johns, N. F., in latitude 54 north, longitude 57 1-2 west. It is off the extreme southwest point of Labrador.

In reaching the North American continent the fliers accomplished that which no other aviator has succeeded in doing—crossing the Atlantic ocean from east to west.

All available sources of information substantiate the fact that the crew of the Bremen landed some five miles from Point Armour, Labrador. This is 400 miles northwest of the charted route of the plane and is approximately 1,300 miles from New York, the destination.

The Associated Press reported shortly before midnight the receipt of the following message by the North German Lloyd from Baron Huenefeld, owner of the plane: "Made a safe intermediate landing on Greenley Island necessitated by lack of fuel and strong headwinds encountered on way. Signed, Von Huenefeld."

Although the plane was damaged in landing the crew escaped injury. Throughout Friday erroneous reports placed the plane in various positions on the North American continent.

NEED OF 'LEISURE' EDUCATION URGEDLewis Declares Books and Art Should Supplant Commercialized Amusement.

Declaring that the "greatest need is education for leisure time," Dr. William Mather Lewis, president of Lafayette college, Friday night addressed the convention of the Georgia Education association at the auditorium. Dr. M. L. Duggan, state superintendent of schools, was the other speaker of the evening. The convention will come to a close this afternoon.

Professor J. E. Burks, school superintendent of Cedartown, Friday was elected vice president of the association by a large majority over his opponent, Professor Jack Dempsey, principal of Jackson High school, in the only contest for officers in the 1928 convention. It was announced Friday night that the convention sessions in the auditorium.

The nominations of Dean H. B. Ritchie, of Georgia State Teachers' college, Athens, for president; R. I. Knox, Hartwell superintendent, for treasurer, and M. R. Little, Jr., of Louisville, for director, were confirmed by Friday's balloting. The next convention city will be selected at the board of directors meeting in May, with Macon as one of the strongest applicants.

Constructive Amusements Stressed.

"Commercialized amusement, excitement and dissipation softens our national fiber, while the love of good books, good pictures, good music, the enjoyment of participation in sport are the best answer we have to deteriorating amusements," Dr. Lewis said.

"The generation of youth which is now in school and college is better than we have had before—they have more intellectual curiosity, they make us show the reason for what we teach them—what they need is the proper leadership," he said. "If parents and teachers had clung to the ideals of the home and to sympathetic understanding of youth's problems, we would not have to worry about the coming generation. Many parents are in too much of a hurry in business and in pursuit of pleasure to give their child a square deal."

Dr. Lewis predicted that the full influence of education will be realized when we appreciate the unity of human knowledge and the ideal of citizenship for which we should aim. "The real teacher trains the children how to think, not what to think," Dr. Lewis said.

BEANS

Here's something good! Yes, they're canned beans, but in name only, not in flavor—they really have that fresh garden bean flavor, because they are packed where grown. Just try a can! To serve simply "heat with a bit of meat" and you have plenty for a family of four.

Barn Destroyed.

Sparta, Ga., April 13.—(Special.)—A large barn on the plantation of Mrs. J. O. Barnes, near Devereux, this county, was destroyed by fire last night together with a valuable horse and all of the feed in the barn. The origin of the fire is a mystery, the same as the one which destroyed the barn of Peden and Gaisert, at Glen-ford, only a few miles from the site of the latest fire, last Sunday night. Officers are investigating the fires as they give evidence of the work of "fire bugs."

Plant Introduction

TOURISTS INJURED

WHEN LANDSLIDE

Dublin, Irish Free State, April 13.—(AP)—Several American tourists were injured today when hundreds of tons of rubbish and boulders slid down the side of Mount Errisk, in County Donegal, just as the tourists were nearing the summit.

SHANK BREAKS RECORD

BUT IS FORCED DOWN

St. Paul, Minn., April 13.—(AP)—Forced down by a blinding snowstorm Gene Shank landed his 90-h. p. bi-plane at 9:18 a. m. here today, after establishing a world's record for sustained flight of a light airplane, as shown in records available here.

The 22-year-old St. Paul pilot was in the air 14 hours and 28 minutes. The former mark of 12 hours and 38 minutes for light-planes equipped with less than 100-h. p. motor as shown in available records here was made by Harry Brooks in a small Ford plane when he flew from Detroit to Titusville, Fla., recently. Brooks was killed when his plane dropped into the sea in a later flight in Florida.

Shank took the air at 6:50 a. m. yesterday in his 90-h. p. plane with the announced intention of bettering the world's endurance record of 53 hours and 36 minutes recently set by Heideman and Stinson. He carried 143 gallons of fuel, but made plans to refuel in the air from another plane.

During the early part of his flight, Shank was favored by excellent flying weather, but early this morning a snowstorm developed. Because of the thickly swirling flakes, it was believed impossible for him to refuel from another plane.

MRS. PINCHOT HITS

MAN WHO HECKLES

Canton, Pa., April 13.—(AP)—Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, wife of former Governor Gifford Pinchot, doesn't mind being interrupted in her political speeches by her opponent for the republican congressional nomination in the 15th Pennsylvania district, but she resents the implication that she drinks intoxicating liquor.

In her whirlwind campaign of the district she invaded the home town of her opponent, Representative Louis F. McFadden, last night, and while addressing a rally in a theater was frequently interrupted by the congressman, who was in the audience. There were more than 700 persons in the theater, and principally supporters of Mrs. Pinchot, when McFadden asked, "How dare you stand there and tell this audience you don't drink?"

Shouts of "put him out" filled the building. "No; let him remain," said the author's wife of the former governor. "I do not drink, and he knows it. If elected, I shall vote dry, live dry and give all my patronage to dry people."

There were several more interruptions by Mr. McFadden, all of which drew spirited replies from Mrs. Pinchot. She told him she had tried to keep the campaign free from personalities, but that now he had "opened the attack," she was ready to meet him. "Your own life has not been so much beyond reproach," she told the congressman.

In her address Mrs. Pinchot attacked the power interests she said were backing McFadden's campaign and she was for protection for the farmers, "first, last and all the time."

New York, April 13.—There are hopes for almost instantaneous communication of quotations on the New York Stock Exchange even though sales should run to 7,000,000 a day. A new ticker which sends 900 characters a minute instead of 300, the limit of the present system, is being tested.

WILEY L. MOORE ASKS NEW TERM

Wiley L. Moore, councilman from the seventh ward, chairman of the finance committee of city council, and one of its most influential and popular members, Thursday announced his candidacy for reelection to the post he has held almost five years.

As chairman of the finance committee, Mr. Moore has demonstrated his ability to handle administration of the public funds to such a degree that his recommendations generally are unanimously accepted by members of city council. He is president of the Wolford Oil company of Georgia, and his large business connections prompted Mayor I. N. Ragsdale to name him head of the city's finance body when Councilman A. J. Orme, former chairman resigned.

Serves on Big Committees.

In addition to his finance committee post, Mr. Moore is a member of the bridge committee of city council, which is the body in charge of details of construction of the Pryor street and Central avenue viaducts. He also is a member of the sewer committee, and served as chairman of that body for two years.

Last year he headed the council committee in charge of arrangements for erection of the new $1,000,000 city hall and is at present a member of the school committee.

He is the only member of council who has served on three council committees which have supervised administration of bond funds.

He sponsored paving of gutters on Cascade avenue, repaving of Gordon, Leffers and Lawton streets, and was the moving spirit in purchase of the new John A. White park on which an 18-hole golf course will be established. He also was instrumental in securing the property for establishment of Moeley park.

Interested in Street Work.

Mr. Moore is now interested in the widening of Lee street to the Campbell county line; completion of widening and paving of Peters street and widening and repaving of Whitell street from the intersection of Forsyth to the railway.

He is a Mason, a Shriner, an Elk and a member of the Kiwanis club and the Junior Order of American Mechanics. Empire council No. 117. He has held several posts of responsibility in these organizations.

Mr. Moore succeeded the late Arthur Dyer as councilman from the seventh ward in 1923, and has been named to the post to which he first was elected by council twice in succession. He now is seeking the position for the third consecutive time.

"I shall continue to give citizens of Atlanta my very best service if elected for another term," Mr. Moore said. "It has been my pleasure to work for many projects in the interest of the city as a whole, and while I of course was elected from the seventh ward, I have deemed it a privilege and a pleasure to serve the entire city. It will be my purpose to give the city a business-like administration and an economic administration of its funds if I am honored again."

CHURCH PROBLEMS ARE CONSIDERED BY A. M. E. HEADS

Spiritual conditions of churches and Sunday schools, requirements of the public schools and reorganization of the financial system of the A. M. E. church were leading topics discussed Friday at the morning session of the south Atlanta district conference at Allen Temple. Rev. J. H. McFarlin, presiding elder, in opening the discussion, said the influence of the church organizations in reaching ninety per cent of the people of the colored race, and that this fact is shown in the decrease of crime.

Rev. S. J. F. Moses, G. B. Lancaster, J. W. Langster, H. D. Canady and others spoke on the friendly relations which exist between the laymen and the ministers.

Bishop O. A. Flowers, in delivering the midday sermon, spoke on the subject, "I Was Glad When They Said Let Us Go Into the House of the Lord." The influence of the minister among the people depends more upon the life that he lives than the sermons he preaches," he said.

Bishop J. S. Plummer will preach the closing sermon of the conference Sunday morning.

Final reports of the pastors showed that the church is progressing along all lines. This morning's session will be featured by memorial exercises and closing of all reports.

3 FORMER ATLANTANS FORM INSURANCE FIRM

Organization of the Public Fire Insurance company, a new company, is announced in dispatches from Newark, N. J., which discloses that three men, formerly prominent citizens of Atlanta, hold important executive posts in the new insurance company.

J. T. Dargatz, Jr., at one time special agent, with headquarters here, for the Atlanta-Birmingham Insurance company, is president of the new company. He is in the Essex building, Newark, where the entire eleventh floor has been leased, while the nation-wide brokerage office will occupy the building at 28 Platt street, New York.

J. T. Dargatz, Jr., president of the new company, is the son of Major J. T. Dargatz, and secured his early training in the fire underwriting field in his father's office here. Major Dargatz was at one time manager of the southern office of the Imperial Insurance company, of London, and later organized the Atlanta-Birmingham Insurance company.

Ulrich Atkinson was born and educated in Atlanta and secured his first business experience in the office of the late Captain Edward S. Gary, southern manager for the Insurance Company of North America. He was assistant manager of the southern department of the Royal Insurance Co., Limited, from 1903 until 1922, when he resigned to become assistant United States manager of the Union Insurance society, with headquarters in Chicago.

The list of officials and board members of the new company contains the names of many men prominent in the business and professional world with Arthur T. Vanderbilt as chairman of the board.

Business and Government

EFFICIENCY, ECONOMY, FRIENDLINESS URGED

Needs Stressed by Sibley

Business and government must ally efficiency, economy and friendliness if they are to succeed in modern times, Federal Judge Samuel H. Sibley, of the northern division of Georgia, of the United States district court, told the Service club of the chamber of commerce and the Atlanta Federal Business Association Friday afternoon at a joint meeting held in the chamber of commerce dining hall. Pointing to the large scale on which big interests have adopted the republican form of government by making employees into business, Judge Sibley said that this would have astonished people 75 years ago, but that today the old idea of business as a monarchy is being put aside, and causes of friction and distress are being removed.

Shows Close Relation.
Judge Sibley's subject was "The Cooperation of Business and Government." In his characteristic clear-cut and concise fashion he showed the close relation of cooperation to successful government and business. Paraphrasing Daniel Webster, Judge Sibley said: "Don't say government first and business afterward, or business first and government afterward, but say government and business, one and inseparable, now and forever."

The American people undertook to have government so constituted that the people are a part of it, and so that business is affected in nowise except by the will of the people, Judge Sibley said. "We should look to the policeman as a friend, and the courthouse as our refuge."

Government for protection of persons and property is paramount now as contrasted with the days when kings cared for their subjects like sheep, being interested only in shearing or killing a few now and then, Judge Sibley pointed out. Government and business ought to work in perfect harmony, but they never have, for the two find it as hard to cooperate as a boy and his billy goat, the trouble dating from the days when the chief sport of the kings was warfare, Judge Sibley said. "This country comes nearer to the cooperation desired than any other," he added.

Personal Rights Defended.

In this century there came a loud cry that the government had forgotten the rights of the people arising from the fact that government had been concerned chiefly with the protection of property, Judge Sibley remarked. He showed that personal rights have been steadily pressed forward, until business has become so regulated that neither would be neglected or forgotten, or sacrificed or subordinated to the other.

Stating that this country is regarded by many as a nation of officeholders, with charges by some that one in every 20 persons is supported by the government, Judge Sibley said it is time to pause to consider what this means, because it involves a balance of power in elections. He wondered if the government's activities have not "become too broad and protection too costly."

The debt of the government at the close of the world war was advanced from $1,250,000,000 to $26,000,000,000, Judge Sibley said. "In 1921 the budget system was established," and brought $17,000 more than formerly, $3,250 was saved on paper clips alone, $30,000 was saved by eliminating the blue stripe in mail sacks, and $3,150 was saved by cutting a quarter of an inch from money order applications. In all, $19,000,000 was saved in 1927."

Expenditures Cut.
"In 1927, through strict economy, the expenditures were cut still further, as for instance, waste mail tickets were sold for paper material, and brought $17,000 more than formerly, $3,250 was saved on paper clips alone, $30,000 was saved by eliminating the blue stripe in mail sacks, and $3,150 was saved by cutting a quarter of an inch from money order applications. In all, $19,000,000 was saved in 1927."

Urging friendliness as one of the trinity for good business and good government, Judge Sibley said that "What you get out of a postoffice clerk is what the last fellow left him."

"If you don't want the government to provide for the disabled soldiers, raise sand with your congressman. If you do want this, then pay your taxes gladly," Judge Sibley said. "You can get the people to like the internal revenue collector, the criminal to like the judge, and the bootlegger to like the prohibition agent, if they are the right sort of people and act right."

FULTON STUDENTS WIN TWO PRIZES IN ESSAY CONTEST

Students of Fulton High school have won both first and second places in the state home economics essay contest conducted by the Georgia Home Economics Association, it was announced Friday. This is the fourth consecutive year that the first prize has gone to a Fulton High student. Estelle King, a member of the senior class, won the first prize. Miss King also recently was declared first honor student of her class, graduating in May. Miss Marion Roberts, a member of the junior class, is the second prize winner.

Third prize in the essay contest went to Girls' High school and fourth to Forsyth High school, it was announced, but the names of the prize winners from these schools were not given.

Widow and 3 Children Need Atlanta's Help

Even in this age of Christian charity and in this country of universal prosperity, there occasionally arise individuals cases of want and suffering that can be eased only by the kindly hand of sympathetic neighborly charity.

Such a case, in Atlanta, has been drawn to the attention of one of the leading Methodist ministers of the city. The facts have been given to The Constitution, which knows them to be exactly as stated.

There is a widow, over 70 years of age, with a paralyzed son and two dependent daughters. All four of them live in one room. It has been impossible for the girls to find work. And the mother, though her years surpass the scriptural three-score and ten, has bravely tried to find employment, but without success.

Now there is no food, no heat and no cash. The family, utterly destitute, face ever threatened eviction from their one poor room. All sources of possible relief have been tried in vain. The only remaining hope lies in the big, generous heart of humanity, and it is in final despair that the mother, overcoming her native pride and repugnance at asking alms, today appeals for help from any who can and will, for the

AUTOIST BARRED FROM DRIVING CAR FOR YEAR'S TIME

W. P. Heath, Jr., 24, of 41 South Prado, will be barred from driving an automobile in the city of Atlanta during the next 12 months, according to his own choice in police court Friday afternoon.

Heath was arraigned before Recorder Murphy M. Hollaway on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated and was fined $100 and cost and given an alternative of serving 30 days in the city workhouse or not driving an automobile for 12 months. A 12-month absence from the automobile wheel was his choice, but the fine had to be paid. It was brought up at the trial that Heath, on March 28, was driving out of Leon avenue near Myrtle street on the wrong side of the street and crashed into a concrete mixer. Several negroes were slightly injured in the crash.

DR. J. D. APPLEWHITE IS LAUDED FOR WORK

Athens, Ga., April 13.—Dr. J. D. Applewhite, now health commissioner for Macon and Bibb county, was given credit for laying the foundation for the remarkable health progress of Athens and Clarke county in the presentments of the grand jury for the April term of superior court today.

C. H. Pantages is foreman of the jury. The presentments pointed out that Dr. Applewhite made such headway in health work that he attracted the attention of the Commonwealth fund, resulting in the establishment of a southeastern child health demonstration here covering five years by the Commonwealth fund.

Dr. Applewhite completely eradicated typhoid fever in Athens and Clarke county in six years time. His other health work has attracted nationwide attention.

WILL COOLIDGE VETO IT?

The McNary-Haugen bill which passed the senate Thursday night by a majority large enough to override a presidential veto will undoubtedly pass the house by equally as substantial a vote.

In that event the president is expected to return the measure to congress without his indorsement.

He has made it plain to both senate and house leaders, and to the most outstanding exponents of the measure, that the bill in its present form carries the same objectionable provisions that influenced his veto a year ago.

His principal objection is the equalization clause which imposes a direct impost upon the major commodities in order to provide the funds for taking care of surpluses.

He regards this provision not only as objectionable financing but as unconstitutional.

Although the vote in the senate indicates sufficient strength in that body to pass the measure over the president's refusal to sign it, it is not likely that this can be done. It is always difficult to override a presidential veto.

In the event the veto is not overridden then the farm relief issue, and this specific measure, will become the most pronounced issue in the republican campaign, with the east pitted against the west.

It will very probably make the convention fight between Coolidge, or some one specifically voicing the Coolidge policies, as say, Secretary Hoover, and former Governor Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois.

Vice President Dawes, of Illinois, holds the same farm relief views as does Governor Lowden, and is advocating the nomination of the Illinois leader.

Indications are, therefore, that the McNary-Haugen bill will not be a republican issue, but will loom as one of the leading issues before the democratic convention; however, with much less intensity than with the republicans.

Undoubtedly the nation needs constructive farm relief legislation, but among democrats particularly there has always been strong opposition to the equalization fee.

The Curtis-Crisp bill provided for surplus control without this direct commodity taxation.

LACK OF COORDINATION.

Superintendent Jerry Wells, speaking Thursday night before the Georgia Education association, stressed the rapid strides that have been made in the field of education in the last few years in Georgia.

In 1927, he declared, approximately $20,000,000 was spent on public education in this state.

In the spring of 1927 nearly 10,000 boys and girls were graduated from 312 four-year accredited high schools.

These schools offer such courses of study as will equip their graduates to enter any institution of higher education, or to fill responsible positions in life, if they are not enabled to avail themselves of opportunities offered by colleges.

More attention has been paid recently to the advancement of accredited high school education in Georgia than in any other one branch.

In the meantime, as Mr. Wells points out, too little has been done in making conditions in the lower grades more effective, and too little has been done in making the university system properly capacitated to provide for this tremendous increase of high school graduates who apply for admission to higher institutions.

In other words, despite tremendous educational advancement, there is not yet a properly coordinated system in Georgia from the first grade in the grammar school to the last year in the university or college.

The University of Georgia is the oldest chartered institution of the kind in America. It has a proud record of achievement. It has large funds established by benefactors for the education of poor boys through loans, as, for instance, the Brown fund and the more recent Comer fund.

The call upon that institution for service is greater than its capacity, and the problem is squarely up to the state legislature.

The last assembly was more liberal than those of recent years, and yet the legitimate demands for new capacity and for new equipment were by no means met.

HOW BUSINESS IS HURT.

In the course of an editorial on the "Needs of the Country," the Manufacturers Record says:

"At present many banks throughout the country are sending their money to New York and lending it on Wall Street collateral, thinking that in doing so they are keeping their assets in more liquid form than if they used these assets in local business affairs. Some day they may see they have made a mistake, for the sudden collapse in the wild real estate boom in Florida was not greater perhaps than the sudden collapse which some day will come on a vastly larger scale in Wall Street gambling activities."

It would be staggering to see the gross amount of money that has gone from local communities throughout the United States into the wild orgy of stock speculations that has existed in Wall Street for the past few weeks. Not only have legitimate small industries suffered but so has every branch of commerce.

The action of the banks in withdrawing their funds from local expansions and sending them to New York, although a most distressing feature, has not been the worst about this speculative boom. It is that hundreds of thousands of individuals have withdrawn their private funds from banks, even their savings accounts, in order to contribute to the coffers of the gamblers who have been at a tug-of-war for speculative profits. The lambs have been shorn.

The boom will just as surely break as it did in 1907, and thousands of people remember the consequences to the country that then followed.

It will just as surely break as the Florida land boom collapsed.

And while a few may "make" in the speculations hundreds of thousands will lose. In such gambling sprees where one "makes" a dollar, it comes out of the pocket of some other person who loses.

It would be staggering even to know the amount of money that has gone out of the south within a month into Wall Street, most of it never to return.

APPLE FESTIVAL TODAY.

Every person who can do so should visit Cornelia today and participate in the apple blossom festival.

The beauty of the great commercial orchards, now in the height of blossom, are rivaled only by the far-famed Magnolia Gardens of Charleston.

Visiting the apple orchards at blossom time will add interest to one of the most rapidly growing horticultural industries in the state.

Last season the growers not only made money but the Georgia apple took its place in many of the leading markets of the country and competed with the apples of the west coast.

Standardization in pack and grade, in addition to the superior quality, flavor and carrying capacity of the Georgia fruit, are bringing about this rapidly evolving situation as to apple growing.

When Atlanta entertains a foreign potentate it crams his time full of banquets. This would be a good policy for the rest of the world. Diplomats and rear admirals should eat more and talk less.

Sinclair's purchase of a third interest in the Fall ranch for $269,000 should be considered by congress as another method of farm relief.

Seeing a "Near Beer" sign in a soft drink stand in North Georgia the revenue man thanked the proprietor for advising him and confiscated three hundred bottles.

The Prince of Wales was thrown five times in one week. He had better renounce the throne and get a seat in parliament.

If the wild flowers would live as long as the blooming idiots who ravish the woods we wouldn't have to object to the terrible spoliation.

The rest of the fraternity will look upon the robbery of a South Carolina editor of $265 as individual with a large waste.

Big Bill Thompson got what he wanted. The voters of Illinois gave him the reverse Edgely.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASEN

The League's Quarters.

M. Aristide Briand recently described life in Geneva as consisting of "Calvinist orgies of dullness." After Paris, it is true, the Swiss city on Lake Lemano does not offer much of an entertainment, especially after nightfall. M. Briand's words have been taken up by those favoring removal of the seat of the League of Nations. Some favor The Hague, others propose Vienna and still others are in favor of Brussels. The Viennese, who formerly took much pleasure in the city, have been roused by a persistent campaign of the Austrian tourist bureau and agencies to get their share of American tourists, and have suddenly taken a lively interest in their point to the congenial atmosphere of the old Hapsburg city and hint that the petty quarrels and pique of the League's headquarters make the league delegates at Geneva a constant misery is the result of small-town ways, where everybody of prominence must perform hang around the most prominent hotel or cafe. The Austrian government, shadow of former glory, is said to be willing enough, too. As the League of Nations headquarters, Vienna's prestige in world affairs might recover a little. But there are opponents. One of them and chiefly Signor Mussolini, a gentleman of decided opinions on Austria. At the league headquarters nothing is known officially, but every secretary has heard Signor Mussolini's opinion. It is agreed that the headquarters should be on the territory of some country neutral in the world war. Holland might stand a good chance, if it were not that "Calvinist dullness" might be encountered there, too. Then there is Spain and Portugal and Norway. So many candidates that the league will probably stay where it is.

Louvain.

No inscription at the University of Louvain, when the restored library of that famous institution of learning is dedicated on July 4 of this year, will record the fact that it was destroyed early in the world war. This news from the United States marks the end of a controversy which had been in progress for several years. The start it had been proposed that an inscription in Latin reading, "Furore teutonico diruta, fono americano restituta" (Destroyed by German fury, restored by American gift), should be interwoven in the stonework of the balustrade around the outside of the new building. But if the proposal and for its numerous supporters such as Whitney Warren, the principal architect, and the late Cardinal Mercier, it had many opponents. One of the latter was Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, New York. It is owing mainly to his initiative now that the idea has been dropped. The present of the inscription, "In bella reducta, in pace restituta" (Razed in time of war, restored in time of peace). The probability all the while that there would be no inscription at all on the new building. This is the solution proposed by Mr. Ladeuze, who is rector of Louvain.

Let Us Rehabilitate Our Many Idle Farms.

Editor Constitution: As I traverse this state of ours I see so many farms lying idle and so many valuable acres growing in weeds where once lived happy families till the sight of such a situation grieves me very much. It creates in me some wishes that I would be glad to have.

1. I wish our millions of farm lands in Georgia were being cultivated and cultivated profitably.

2. I wish more of my people were back on the farm instead of being congested in these unhealthy and sinful cities.

3. I wish white farmers would take more interest in negro farmers, take them into their homes or organize them into auxiliary farmers' unions and help them to become prosperous.

4. I wish the country was made safe for every citizen, white or black.

5. I wish all farmers would start early killing out the pests that infest our crops so that we can make full crops. Pests should be used on from the start.

6. I wish colored farmers were aided in marketing their crops so that they could realize the largest return on their products.

7. I wish the country districts were supplied with good schools and churches so they may become contented and happy.

8. I wish that our people even in the cities were furnished with good schools and adequate accommodations so that double sessions could be dispensed with and better teachers secured.

9. I wish we had ample playgrounds for our children so that they might be kept off the streets.

10. I wish all my people would feel themselves at home in this southland of ours and stop drifting from place to place. I would like to see the producers and builders instead of seeking that others make and built. All men should get pleasure and profit out of the works of their own hands.

11. I wish I could see crime suppressed under the King of Peace, rising in the hearts of all men.

12. I wish every farmhouse was occupied by a contented and successful farmer for that is the only basic industry in the world.

Let me hear the happy songs of contented farmers penetrating the woodlands and swamps of old Georgia and reaching from hill and glade as of old. Let me see the cherry trees in full blossom and the peach trees curling from kitchen fens beneath which is a summons repeat in preparation fit for a king. Let me see the smiling orchards laden with delicious fruits waving its leaves to a merry and welcome breeze in a banquet hall unknown to city or town while out in the meadow, in hedge and wood, Bob White calls to blackberry pie and the golden wheat and the golden wheat and corn and let me hear the big fat hogs squealing for the butcher to come on. Give me pure milk and butter, fat chickens and fresh eggs to match with a garden full of all the vegetables of all kinds and I feel myself getting younger, then get out of my way and let me kneel at the good old spring and slake my fervent thirst with water that needs no filtration nor ice for purification. Let me taste to the morning bird, the blue bird and the jay and watch that woodpecker bang away on the hard end of the tree trunk. Let me see the turtle dove cooing, the owl hoot and the crow caw.

The "Clock of Time," I turn back to those days of yore. Carry me back to those days and to the simple life, where the moral and physical atmosphere alike are pure as the sunbeam and where nature's food and the family altar is unimpaired and the thoughts of the Man of Galilee. Let me see these parents hand and where children are submissive, obedient and respectful. Let me live where the people feel that the family altar is unimpaired and the thoughts of the Man of Galilee. Let me see these parents hand and where children are submissive, obedient and respectful. Let me live where the people feel that the family altar is unimpaired and the thoughts of the Man of Galilee.

THE PERSONALITY OF CANDIDATE HERBERT HOOVER.

Whenever a public character looms large enough to be "mentioned" seriously for the office of president of the United States, the man in the street becomes naturally curious to learn "who that fellow is" and what is in his personality to make him

Take Secretary Herbert Hoover to start with. He is an Iowa cornflower, born in 1874, and is practically the zenith of a vigorous physical and mental manhood. He was graduated in engineering from Stanford university in 1898 and has since accumulated more university and college honorary degrees than a Melungeon has freckles.

Hoover has done professional work in mining, metallurgical and railway enterprises in nearly every great country of the globe, and from them he has been able to live on easy street and walk on velvet. The big pay of the president is really no great magnet to him.

Certainly no known man has ever lived in any country who has been called to serve his nation and humanity at large in so many important ways as Hoover. He has been a public figure in the field of the republicans running zigzag like a locust over the common sense to manage them. He has distinguished himself in the field of the republicans running zigzag like a locust over the common sense to manage them.

JARDINE WARMLY DEFENDS HOOVER

Washington, April 13.—(P)—A strong defense of Secretary Hoover against charges that he has usurped some of the powers of the agriculture department and otherwise has worked to injure the farmer was made today by Secretary Jardine.

In a letter dated April 11 and made public today the agriculture secretary told Charles S. Wilson, former commissioner of agriculture of New York state and now a farmer at Hall, N. Y., that "there is not the slightest essence of truth in these charges, and I would resent them if they were made with honest intentions."

Mr. Wilson, under date of April 10, had written Jardine saying he had heard the charge made that "Mr. Hoover, as secretary of commerce, has encroached upon the work of the department of agriculture and in other ways has hindered the operation of your department in the interest of the farmers."

"It has been my feeling," Wilson said, "that these charges were made for ulterior motives, but I have come to the conclusion that the farmers of New York state and of the country at large are deserving of a frank statement from you, for these charges involve that of the federal government designed to render service to American agriculture."

Replying, Secretary Jardine said that he had "consistently refused to be drawn into a controversy on the unfounded charges, because he fully understood the motives of the small group that has been responsible for making them."

"Under normal circumstances," he wrote, "I would not dignify these attacks, but I have come to the conclusion that the farmers of this country are entitled to know the facts because these charges seriously reflect upon the work of this department and upon the work of the agriculture department."

"During the three years in which I have been secretary of agriculture I have enjoyed the wholehearted and sympathetic support of Secretary Hoover in all matters pertaining to the administration of the department of agriculture, and his actions always have been in the interest of the department's work and of the American farmer. In fact, the records show that in many instances which have involved the work of the two departments I was actually part of the department of agriculture."

Calling attention to the fact that he had made a statement that Hoover desired to absorb the foreign service work of the agriculture department, Jardine said the commerce secretary had signed a joint letter with him to the agricultural committees of congress endorsing companion bills "clearly defining the foreign service activities of the two departments. He challenged anybody to 'find a single fault' with this bill as it stands today."

Other examples of joint interest cited by Jardine were the cooperative project now being carried on by the two departments to find new uses for cotton and Hoover's support of a proposal to take the annual agricultural census November 1 instead of April 1, as some persons has suggested.

Jardine said, favored the later date.

GERMAN-IRISH FLIERS LAND IN LABRADOR

ment, but it was not until after 8 o'clock Friday night that definite word of the safe landing came. A low-powered radio station at Point Amour sent out messages during the afternoon, telling of the landing, until a higher powered station finally heard it and rebroadcast the news.

Immediate plans for expeditions to aid the fliers have been made and planes are expected to leave the United States during today for Labrador. The terrain of Greenley Island is not favorable for plane landings. It is composed of two small peaks, one 65 and the other 85 feet above the sea level. There is a small fishing village on the island. Outside Point Amour it is uninhabited.

Computations show that the Bremen remained in the air 34 hours. It had sufficient gasoline for a flight of between 40 and 45 hours when it left Baldonnel air field, on the western coast of Ireland. It is presumed that bucking strong winds reduced the cruising radius greatly and exhausted the fuel supply much earlier than would have been the case had calm weather prevailed.

Three planes had gone out before the Bremen over the Atlantic. Nungesser and Gail in the White Bird, Princess Anne, of Louisville, West, and her two British officer companions in the St. Raphael, the Honorable Elsie Mackay and Captain W. R. Hitchcock, in the Endeavor, all had been sighted over the western edge of the British Isles, and then passed out forever.

NORTH CAROLINA GREETES AL SMITH

Asheville, N. C., April 13.—(P)—Smiling and light-hearted, Governor Smith, of New York, started in today on a golfing vacation to the cheers of several thousand southerners who greeted him on his arrival here.

Further south than he ever had been before, the democratic presidential candidate went to the palatial Biltmore Forest Country club, on the outskirts of Asheville. There he expects to take it easy, after a strenuous executive session at Albany for several weeks, and the word has gone out that he has come into the south to rest and play, not to discuss plans.

Even before his train came to a stop at Biltmore station, in the suburbs of Asheville, shortly before noon, the New York governor had a taste of southern hospitality.

Before he was up this morning men, women and children gathered at way stations to get a glimpse of him.

At Old Fort, N. C., he came to the rear platform and listened to a greeting from the station master, which he said later, struck him just right.

As he stepped off the special car which had carried him from New York, Governor Smith was greeted by cheers. He paused, walking stick and a lone cigar in his hand, while photographers swarmed up for close-ups. The plaza adjoining the Biltmore station had been roped off to hold back the crowd and once the governor had seated himself in the rear seat of an automobile, with top down, the throng swept in and he rewarded with a brief, extemporaneous speech.

Derby With Him.

"So I wouldn't disappoint you," he started off as he held up his hat, "I brought the brown derby with me."

Then he remarked that he never before had visited North Carolina, never before had been this far south.

"In fact," he said, "if it hadn't been for the national conventions I doubt if I'd ever got out of my native state of New York."

Smith spoke of the arduous duties of the governor of New York and said from the sample he had of North Carolina's welcome he knew he would enjoy himself in the south.

"All my life," he went on, "I have enjoyed seeing people, meeting people and talking to them. I am greatly honored by this cordial reception."

The welcome extended to the New York executive in a country that generally had been regarded as hostile to him from a political standpoint was in the nature of a civic celebration. Mayor Gallatin Roberts and Judge Julius D. Adams headed the official reception committee.

With Three Friends.

The governor came south with three of his friends—William Kenny, James J. Riordan and William H. Todd—and with Senator Gerry, the Rhode Island democrat, who has a country estate not far from the county club where Mr. Smith is staying. Mr. Gerry boarded the train at Washington.

Mrs. Gerry, the former Mrs. Edith Vanderbilt, met the party here and drove with them to the Biltmore club, a dozen motorcycle police, who made liberal use of their sirens, blaring the way.

At the club portico, the governor, with a grin, looked up and remarked: "That sun looks like golf to me."

He plans to spend much of his time here on the links and reiterated today that he had no political conferences planned. In fact, he says, he has dismissed politics from his mind while he makes the most of his time.

LIBERAL RELIGIOUS VIEW IS URGED BY YOUTH FORUM

In a lively discussion Friday night on "The Tendency of Youth" the young people of the Atlanta Youth Forum declared themselves for a liberal view of religion.

The consensus of opinion was that while young people of today do not always agree with the theology of former generations they hold to ideals quite as high.

Utility Activity In Universities Told I.C.C. Body

Washington, April 13.—(P)—The activity exercised by public utility publicity organizations to bring out their viewpoint in universities and colleges was laid before the interstate commerce commission today during its inquiry into public utility financing.

A mass of documents and letters, introduced during the testimony of Rob Roy McGregor, assistant director of the Illinois committee on public utility information, showed that the organizations were interested in the type of textbooks to be used in the schools and in forthcoming treatises by college professors.

Among the letters offered were a number signed by John F. Gilchrist, chairman of the Illinois committee, in which the committee offered opportunities to economics and engineering professors in universities to write textbooks favorable to them. In addition, information on public utilities were offered along with the use of laboratories at Chicago and Illinois utility plants.

In one of the letters Gilchrist stated that his organization would assist professors in marketing the textbooks among utility companies.

The Illinois committee learned of books being written by professors on public utilities and asked to see the manuscripts in order to make suggestions, the documents revealed.

MISTRIAL DECLARED IN CASE OF MRS. TODD

Brunswick, Ga., April 13.—(P)—A mistrial was declared early tonight on the case of Mrs. Mamie Lee Todd, formerly of Kingsland, Ga., charged with being an accessory before and after the murder of Cashier C. A. Perry, of the State Bank of Kingsland. The jury had been out since Wednesday, and almost from the first was hopelessly divided.

It was not contended by the prosecutor that Mrs. Todd had any part in the slaying of the bank cashier, but that the conspiracy to rob the Kingsland bank was hatched in her home, and that the killing was a result of the robbery plan.

Sentences of death in the electric chair were faced today by two members of the gang of four accused of slaying Perry. The fourth member Convicted last night after a detailed confession that he alone fired the shots that ended the life of the cashier when he resisted a robbery plot Malcolm Morrow showed no sign of emotion when sentence was pronounced. He had told the jury that he felt the end was near. Homer Simpson, convicted of the same charge Tuesday, also heard the same sentence. Each was ordered electrocuted at Milledgeville on June 1.

Motion for new trial was filed in behalf of Simpson and Morrow, who were convicted on practically the same evidence, although Morrow took the stand to tell a detailed story of the crime and deny that the shooting of Perry was a premeditated act. He gave in a well modulated, carefully chosen speech to the jury his version, which said the cashier's resistance and attempt to use a knife led him to shoot. He admitted that Perry was lured to a barn on a pretext of land trading before the robbery plot was consummated.

Pangalist Plot Discovery Sends General to Prison

Athens, Greece, April 13.—(P)—Discovery of a Pangalist plot and decision to send General Theodoros Pangalos to Izeddin prison on the Island of Crete was announced today.

A letter stating that Madame Pangalos had contributed 300,000 drachmas ($3,900) to the conspirators was seized.

General Pangalos has been in prison in Athens waiting further hearings of a charge of treason growing out of his rise to power in July, 1926. At that time he assumed the dictatorship and subsequently became president. He was ousted by General Kondylis in August of the same year and imprisoned.

Madame Pangalos was arrested in connection with a Pangalist plot last October and later released.

HAUGEN TO OFFER FARM SUBSTITUTE

Washington, April 13.—(P)—A move will be initiated tomorrow to have the house, when it turns to consideration of the farm relief question in about 10 days, take up the Haugen farm bill as a substitute for the McNary measure, passed yesterday by the senate.

Unlike a year ago, when the house farm bloc formed a cordon of votes around the farm bill sent by the senate and ward off all challenge, the house group now feels the Haugen measure is the bill that should be enacted.

House Bill Favored.
Both Chairman Haugen and Representative Purnell, of Indiana, ranking republican of the house agriculture committee, said today that they favored the house bill in preference to that approved by the senate. The McNary measure today formally was reported to the house by the senate and referred without debate to the house agriculture committee.

Chairman Haugen has called the house committee to meet tomorrow to consider what should be done and at that time Purnell said that he would move the substitution. He declared he believed the Haugen bill to be better rounded out and a more perfected piece of legislation, although he had no outstanding objection to the senate bill.

Consider Amendments.
He added that the amendments adopted by the senate to the McNary measure could be considered by members in the interim before the farm relief question comes to the floor and if they were thought advisable could be offered to the house bill.

Except for several amendments affecting cotton, which were added to the McNary bill through the efforts of southern senators, it is virtually identical with the Haugen measure. The major difference in the bill as reported by respective senate and house committees was that the McNary measure called for an appropriation of $250,000,000 and the Haugen measure for $400,000,000.

SENATE REAFFIRMS TURK AMBASSADOR CONFIRMATION VOTE

Washington, April 13.—(P)—After a two-hour discussion behind closed doors the senate today reaffirmed its action of last week in confirming the nomination of Joseph C. Grew, of New Hampshire, to be ambassador to Turkey.

A motion to reconsider the nomination was made by Senator King, democrat, Utah, after confirmation had been made in his absence from the chamber, but it was rejected without a roll call, but with a number of democrats supporting it.

Senator King explained that the fight was not directed at the nomination of Grew, but at the manner in which the state department resumed diplomatic relations with Turkey after the senate failed to ratify the Lausanne treaty, in the drafting of which Grew, as minister to Sweden, had quite a large hand.

The discussion in the executive session revolved around oil exploitation in Turkey and the independence and protection of Armenia. Some senators said there was a fine spirit displayed toward Armenia and insistence by many that the new treaty that must be drafted shall provide for Armenian independence before its ratification.

NEW YORK TIMES SUES BOSTON PAPER ON LINDY'S STORIES

Boston, April 13.—(P)—Suit was filed in the federal court today by the New York Times company against the New England Newspaper Publishing company, publishers of the Boston Evening American, charging piracy of copyrighted articles by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and seeking damages of $800,000.

The Times declared that May 13, 1927, it made an agreement with Lindbergh for a series of articles by him on his then proposed trans-Atlantic flight to Paris and that after his flight he composed articles exclusively for The Times which were copyrighted by that newspaper. The Times alleged that in eight editions of May 23 and in one edition May 24 The American published substantially the whole of copyrighted articles prepared by Lindbergh for The Times, and that it also published articles in violation of The Times' copyright May 31 and June 1.

ALABAMA SOLON DEFENDS FEDERAL SHOALS CONTROL

Washington, April 13.—(United News).—Production of fertilizer at the Muscle Shoals power plant on the Tennessee river in Alabama by the government, as provided under the Morin bill, will not ruin the private fertilizer industry as claimed, Representative Almon, democrat, declared in a house speech today.

Almon endorsed the Morin bill, whereby a government corporation is set up to produce fertilizer at the giant project.

"The price of fertilizer," Almon said, "is now higher than heretofore and the demand is greater than the supply so it cannot be claimed that government operation will put the fertilizer people out of business, but we have a right to expect it will increase the supply and reduce the price."

30,000 New Bedford Textile Workers Plan To Go on Strike Monday

New Bedford, Mass., April 13.—(P)—Thirty thousand textile workers in this city today stood committed to a strike next Monday morning simultaneously with the effective date of a 10 per cent wage reduction. Strike action was decided upon by a vote of 2,571 to 188. The results of the voting by unions were announced during a meeting of the textile council last night. The decision was received enthusiastically by 2,000 workers at a hall.

Practically all of the mills of this city manufacturing fine cotton goods, rayon and silk goods are affected. The New Bedford Cotton Manufacturers' association, when informed of the result of the ballot, in which every union involved was recorded affirmatively, issued a statement in which it regretted that the council did not see fit to postpone its action. There would be no change in its stand, the association asserted.

The manufacturers announced that the Beacon Mill had withdrawn from the Manufacturers' association in consideration of its weavers and the loomfixers having agreed to withdraw from their respective unions. The mill, it was announced, would be continued as an open shop, the operative accepting the 10 per cent wage reduction.

Sheriff Besieges Woman Wanted As Knapp Witness

Albany, N. Y., April 13.—(P)—Searchlights trained throughout last night on a dormitory building at Middlebury college, Middlebury, Vt., bore evidence of the intensity of the effort which is being made by New York state to bring Clara Banch Knapp to Albany to testify in the grand jury proceedings against her stepmother, Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp.

Mrs. Knapp, formerly secretary of state, is under indictment for her administration of the 1925 state census, and further indictments are being sought.

Since Tuesday morning Miss Knapp has been besieged in her dormitory room by peace officers of Adirondack county, Vt., and investigators of the New York state department of law in a vain attempt to serve a subpoena on her. Her testimony is sought in connection with allegations that she, together with several other relatives of the former state official, were listed on census pay rolls without ever having performed any work.

Miss Knapp, who is a faculty member at Middlebury college, received slightly more than $5,300 in census salaries, although it is charged that she never did census work. The college authorities have taken a position of neutrality in regard to the matter, it was reported to the control by the New York state investigators, and will not force the teacher to leave her fourth floor room in Homestead dormitory.

MANY INDICTMENTS FOLLOW KY. PROBE

Frankfort, Ky., April 13.—(P)—W. H. Shanks, former state auditor; J. T. Embury, former assistant director of fire prevention and rates department; Robert E. Crowe, candidate for the democratic nomination for governor last year; Maurice Galvin, prominent republican of Covington, and "Red" Roberts, all-American football star of Centre college, were named in indictments returned by the Franklin county grand jury today.

Shanks was charged in 11 true bills with fraudulently paying out of the state's money while he was state auditor, and Embury was charged with fraudulently receiving the state's money.

Crowe, Galvin and Roberts were indicted along with 10 others for their activities as lobbyists during the 1928 session of the grand jury. All of the indictments returned carry felony punishments.

Shanks indictments carry a punishment of from one to five years in each of the 11 offenses, while Embury's five charges carry punishments ranging from one to two and a half years. The lobbyists who were charged in the indictments with "unlawfully appearing upon the floor of the house of representatives while that body was in session without invitation of the house," are subject to jail sentences and fines of $5,000 each.

Others indicted on the lobbying charges were H. Muenir, Louisville; J. T. Mercer, Paducah, Ky.; N. J. Gallagher, Louisville; A. T. Henry, Louisville; C. C. Regan, Covington, Ky.; C. J. JURY SELECTED FOR FOURTH TRIAL IN BANK FRAUD

Sanford, Fla., April 13.—(P)—Selection of a jury for the trial of Forrest Lake on a charge of violating state banking laws, was completed late today and court recessed until tonight, when the taking of testimony will begin.

The task of choosing the six men to try the case was begun last night and the final selection took place after the defense had used their five challenges and the state had excused four from serving.

The indictment now on trial charges the former president of the defunct Seminole County Bank with the making of loans in excess of 40 per cent of the capital and surplus of the bank, this being against the state banking statutes.

This trial is not expected to consume as much time as three previous ones, which have been completed in connection with the charges arising from the failure of the bank.

DEAD AND BLIND ATTORNEYS WIN FRAUD APPEALS

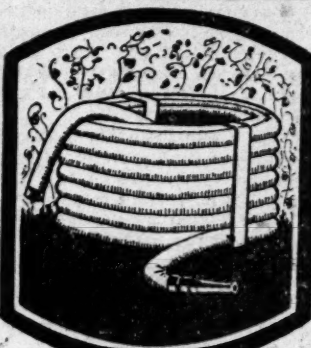

New York, April 13.—(P)—Two attorneys, one of them dead and the other blind, who were disbarred after their conviction in federal court in 1920 of conspiracy to defraud the alien property custodian, today were readmitted to the bar under an opinion of the appellate division of the state supreme court, which held that they were innocent.

Norvik R. Lindheim, who died last November 4, and S. Walter Kaufman, blind since 1899, were convicted with Dr. Edward E. Rumely, former publisher of the New York Evening Mail, of reporting during the war that the Evening Mail was American-owned when in fact the controlling interest was held by the imperial German government. They were convicted after the newspaper changed hands.

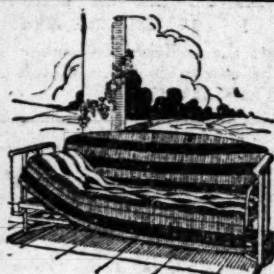

The three were sentenced to a year and a day each in Atlanta penitentiary. They were freed by President Coolidge.

IT TAKES ALL-BRAN TO RELIEVE CONSTIPATION

More and more people are eating bran for "health's sake" these days. And it's a fine thing. But not everybody realizes what a difference there is in so-called "brans." Doctors say it takes 100% bran to supply enough roughage to relieve constipation. Part-bran products, at best, can only be partly effective.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is 100% bran. It furnishes roughage in effective quantities—and in the most effective form: cooked and krumbled. It does a work part-bran products cannot hope to equal. Two tablespoonsful daily—chronic cases, with every meal—are guaranteed to relieve constipation.

Serve ALL-BRAN often. With milk or cream—fruits or honey added. Be sure you get genuine Kellogg's though—in the red-and-green package. Use it in cooking. Sprinkle into soups. ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

BRUMBY EXONERATED OF SALVAGE CHARGES

Washington, April 13.—(AP)—Complete exoneration and even commendation of Rear Admiral Frank H. Brumby, in charge of the S-4 salvage operations, were included in Secretary Wilbur's final action in the case, an endorsement of the court of inquiry's supplemental findings, issued today.

Admiral Brumby will consequently retain his command of the control force. Instead of agreeing with the court's recommendation that Admiral Brumby "be removed from his command of the control force" because of "an insufficient familiarity with the details of the construction of submarines," Secretary Wilbur's endorsement specifically commends the admiral for having "remained on board the Falcon in constant contact with all of those engaged in the work," and adds that "any errors or oversights or failures in his testimony are insufficient to overcome his splendid record of achievement covering more than 31 years of service in the navy."

"There is nothing in his conduct in connection with the rescue or salvage operations which is considered blame-worthy or other than commendable," the secretary's statement concluded.

Lack of Evidence Frees Two Men In Woman's Death

Miami, Fla., April 13.—(AP)—J. Tunstall and Edward Durant, held for investigation in the case of Mrs. Eleanor K. Guthrie, of New York, who died in what police believed to be unusual circumstances here Tuesday, today released.

The state's attorney who said there was not enough evidence to hold them. State's Attorney Richard H. Hunt announced his conviction that the woman died of natural causes aggravated by alcoholism.

Meanwhile, Hugh J. Guthrie, the husband, who gave a Riverside address, arrived to take charge of the body with the assertion that his wife was not a drug addict. He professed ignorance of her activities here.

Authorities, however, were trying to discover what she did with the proceeds of $1,500 in checks which Guthrie said his wife had cashed within the last few days. Previously they had been told by Mrs. Robert C. Keeler, her mother, that she had voluntarily loaned Tunstall two diamond rings, which he pawned. An automobile was purchased in Tunstall's name to protect Mrs. Guthrie in case of accident, the authorities were told.

A nurse's story that Mrs. Guthrie's condition varied with visits from Tunstall, and that she had been confined to a former drug addiction before dying in a Miami Beach hospital Tuesday, led to the investigation.

RESTAURANT MAN FREED IN KILLING OF NEGRO STUDENT

An indictment charging G. W. Ward, proprietor of a restaurant on Peters street, with the murder of James Barnes, negro student at Morehouse university, was "no-billed" Friday by the Fulton county grand jury following an investigation of the shooting, said to have followed a fight between the two on April 3.

Barnes was shot to death in the restaurant after he went outside and found a stick to continue a struggle started a few minutes previously, according to investigating officers.

Testimony at the hearing is said to have established a clear-cut case of self-defense for Ward.

WILL ASK I. C. C. TO APPROVE MERGER OF TWO RAILROADS

New Orleans, April 13.—(AP)—H. C. Couch, Arkansas power and railroad magnate, today announced his intention to seek the approval of the interstate commerce commission to his plan for consolidating the Louisiana & Arkansas railway, of which he is president, with the Louisiana Railway and Navigation company.

In the event approval is given, Mr. Couch said, $3,000,000 would be spent in improving the railroad. The announcement by Mr. Couch was the first official intimation he has given of his intention to acquire the L. & A. R. N., although it had been rumored here several weeks ago that he was negotiating for purchase of the Mississippi central railroad, although he would make no comment on that deal today.

The announcement by Mr. Couch was made during his visit here while on an inspection tour of L. & A. R. N. properties.

Unbecoming Conduct Charged to R. R. Davis, Atlanta Patrolman

Charges of conduct unbecoming an officer were filed Friday against Patrolman R. R. Davis for a hearing before the police committee of council, according to police. The charges were brought by Homer Brand, an employee of the Georgia Power company, who alleges that Davis used profanity and handled him roughly in arresting Brand on March 31 on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Brand claims that he was proceeding to the home of his mother, who was ill, when Davis, dressed in civilian clothes, accosted him and demanded to know why he was strolling in the neighborhood. When he refused Davis' manner, the officer displayed no signs of being abusive, cursing him and jamming a pistol in his side, although he had caused no disorder, Brand alleges.

At the station house, Davis ordered that Brand be held for $100 bond, but when Brand informed the captain of the nature of the matter, he was released on a copy of charges, and was dismissed in police court, Brand alleges.

Emory Museum Links Egypt
Of Old With Central America

Idols from both places identical

Evidence has been found in the museum at Emory university to support the theory that Egyptian settlers in Guatemala, Central America, before Columbus discovered America. The discovery has led to the belief that the Aztecs, who had a reasonably high type of civilization, were descendants of the Egyptians, which belief may detract somewhat from the fame of the explorer.

The evidence is based on the fact that two small idols are in the Emory museum, one of them from Guatemala, the other from Egypt. These idols bear the same inscriptions on them, and are similar in all respects.

One of the idols was placed in the museum by Dr. W. A. Shelton, professor in the school of theology, who got possession of the idol upon his visit to Egypt. The other was put there by J. P. McCluskey, who brought it back from Guatemala on a visit there in the summer of 1923. McCluskey claims to have found his idol near a mountain top.

Last fall McCluskey saw Dr. Shelton's idol in the museum and noting its likeness to the one he had at home, sent for it. On being compared they were found to be exactly the same size and to have the same Egyptian inscription on them. Dr. Shelton is a recognized student of Hebrew and the Egyptian languages.

I. C. C. WILL HOLD ATLANTA HEARING ON NEW HAY RATES

The interstate commerce commission will hold a hearing in Atlanta for the consideration of proposed revisions in rates on hay, excelsior and other commodities covered in the commission's docket number 3048, it was announced Friday by James A. Perry, chairman of the Georgia public service commission. This hearing will be held to give shippers in the Georgia territory opportunity to present their side in the case. The date of the hearing will be announced later but shippers will be given 30 days' notice, according to the telegram received by Chairman Perry Friday.

At first the interstate commerce commission set a hearing for Cincinnati, Ohio, but through the efforts of the Georgia commission the hearing was moved to Atlanta.

There is a large movement in Georgia of the commodities covered in the investigation. The Georgia commission, for this reason, used strong efforts to have a hearing on the question set for Atlanta for the convenience of the Georgia shippers.

VETERANS OF WARS MUST PAY TOBACCO TAX, NAPIER RULES

Disabled veterans of the civil war or of any other war are not exempt from the Georgia law requiring dealers to buy and use the tobacco tax stamps provided by the state for sales of cigars and cigarettes. Attorney General George M. Vandiver ruled in an opinion handed down Friday.

The decision came in answer to an inquiry from John M. Vandiver, state commissioner of revenue, who had received numerous inquiries on the subject following a court decision made in America recently, when the court held that indigent soldiers were not liable for the tax.

Mr. Vandiver stated, commenting on the attorney general's ruling, that he construed the law as applying to all citizens of the state without discrimination, and that all violators would be vigorously prosecuted.

MARKET SURVEY HEAD OF GOVERNMENT HERE

John M. Hager, director of market surveys of the United States department of commerce arrived in Atlanta Friday for a visit of several days to discuss matters relative to domestic commerce.

He has just returned from the annual meeting of the National Electric Light association at Miami, Fla. He is making his headquarters at the office of Harry O. Mitchell, Atlanta district manager of the federal department of commerce.

McCord Re-elected to Head Produce Club Third Term

The policy of encouraging "home production" of the Atlanta Produce club will be continued. It was indicated Friday with the reelection of J. McCord as president for the third consecutive time. Mr. McCord is a member of McCord Brothers, J. O. Cravens is the new secretary and treasurer of the club.

The Produce club strives to encourage home production by acquainting growers and shippers with proper grading and packing methods and by facilitating the handling of produce.

As a result of the efforts of the Produce club the convention of the National League of Commission Merchants is to be held in Atlanta in January, 1929. The club is composed of all the fruit and produce dealers in Atlanta.

INSTALLMENT LXVI.
A SUDDEN PROPOSAL

Roger sat down close to the window seat, silent for a moment. Then he said:

"Either, tell me one thing: first put the suspicion into you that there was something not quite straight about my father's illness?"

"She knitted her brow and thought hard for a bit."

"I hardly know," she replied at last: "it's awfully difficult to say. There were certain things, unimportant things that I noticed, even before I took on the case, but, taken separately, not one would have meant anything much. I don't believe I can say exactly when I first began to feel uncomfortable about the situation. Perhaps I shouldn't have done so at all if it hadn't been for the pure accident of overhearing a conversation between your stepmother and Captain Holliday that afternoon I told you about."

"I know you saw them together, but you never told me you heard what they were talking about."

"Well, I did hear quite a lot. I listened hard, pretending not to, of course, for I got tremendously interested. He was saying he had almost made up his mind to go to South America with his Spanish friend, and she showed very plainly that she was afraid to let him go, that she believed he wouldn't come back to her if he did. Then she made it pretty clear that it was the attitude of a person she called 'Charles' which had caused all the trouble. Of course, I didn't know who Charles was? But after that she said something which interested me enormously? She described a visit to a crystal-gazer, or a medium of some kind, and she said the woman saw 'Charles' lying ill in bed, with a nurse beside him and a doctor. And who do you think she said the doctor was? Sartorius?"

"You don't mean it?"

"You see, I had just come from Sartorius' house. I had gone there that afternoon to try to get a job. You may imagine how interested I was to find this woman was a patient of the man I expected to work for. And then . . . I got the idea that both Lady Clifford and the young man seemed disappointed because the medium didn't see anything further, and Captain Holliday was very bitter about it, and said that Charles would recover and live to be 90, which upset the lady very much."

"Do you think Holliday had anything to do with it?" Roger asked tentatively, playing with the window cord.

"I am fairly sure he hadn't, though he may have suspected something. At the last he was dragged into it quite against his will, or at least I got that idea. He was in a blue funk, too, simply dying to clear out."

"Just the same," remarked Roger. "I'm going to be able to skin out of the affair so easily as he thinks. A wireless has already been sent to the coast he sailed on, and when he reaches port he'll be detained and sent back here. In any case, he'll be wanted as an accessory after the fact, which may prove an unpleasant business for him. . . . Go on, though, tell me how you actually came to make up your mind that something was wrong."

"I never did make up my mind until it was too late, that was the awful part! When I think it all over, though, I can see that the thing that most roused my suspicions—not altogether by itself, but taken together with what happened later—was the doctor's living in a position with me for mislaying a hypodermic needle. I haven't told you that yet, have I?"

"No, was it after the injection?"

"It was, and at the very moment when you cut your hand, I put the needle down to attend to you, and I completely forgot where I laid it. I was fearfully angry," called me names and abused me in a way that got my back up. There seemed no reason for it; I couldn't understand it at all. Then the same day your father got suddenly worse, you remember, and I should have forgotten all about the beast's nasty temper, only . . ."

"Why, quite suddenly, I found the needle! Where do you think? Inside a big book of drawings! I had been wondering, I put two and two together. . . . You see, I didn't dare mention my awful suspicion. I couldn't! It might have ruined me forever if I were wrong. So I did the only thing I could think of, I took the needle to that chemist and got it analyzed. You know all the rest."

"If only you had confided in me, Father?"

"Even so it was too late to save your father; nothing would have saved him. And you quite understand if the suspicion proved unfounded it would have finished me as nurse for all time!"

"He looked at her intently. "Would that have meant so much to you?"

"Well, what do you think? I've got to earn my living."

"But as far as that goes you might have guessed—that is, you might have."

"He broke off as a knock at the door heralded the entrance of a waiter bearing a tray with two frothy cocktails. Ah, here's something to put a little color in your cheeks. You want bucking up, you know! Here's how!"

She took an appreciative sip, then set down her glass, turning on him a slightly troubled face.

"Roger, I suppose if this man is caught it will mean a trial? I shall be wanted as a witness, shan't I?" The chief witness, even!"

"Yes, my dear, you will," he replied reluctantly. "I hate the thought of it as much as you do. I wish there was some way to spare you."

"I expect he'll try to prove I'm insane," she said, "for else that I had some motive to trying to fasten suspicion on to him. Perhaps he'll even suggest to his lawyer that I was out to blackmail him."

"Well, there's a pretty black lot of evidence against him. There's the death in itself, the way in which she died, was a damning admission. It seems to me possible that he'll give up the fight entirely. It's hard to predict anything. One doesn't know what cards he has up his sleeve."

"There is something still so terrifying to me about his machinelike efficiency," she said, "that I can believe him capable of anything. His whole plan was so perfectly thought out, down to the smallest detail. It only broke down through the purely accidental. Once through my loving needle—though that wasn't so bad as his losing his temper!—and once because he let Holliday give me the injection instead of doing it himself. And yet when I think of what he may say at the trial . . ."

"But you haven't asked me to marry you at all yet?"

"I'm asking you now. Besides, you knew I meant to. I've been making inquiries this afternoon. There are a lot of formalities that have to be gone through with; we have to see an English solicitor, sign a lot of papers, be affianced two Sundays—a sort of betrothal, you know—and then we have to be married at the mairie. Altogether the business takes just over a couple of weeks, so the sooner one decides the sooner one can set about it. You see?"

"She could think of no reply. Her home, her sisters came into her mind. She stammered, then laughed again with a lump in her throat. Those tears again! She mustn't be so stupid. . . ."

"There was a sharp rap at the door, more businesslike than the last."

"Who in hell is that?" Roger burst into in irritable annoyance. It proved to be the valet, obsequious and apologetic, yet full of importance. "There is a sergeant-de-ville to speak with monsieur," he informed them mysteriously, but with a Frenchman's full appreciation of the ruptured tete-a-tete.

"I'll have to go, I suppose," Roger informed her, "but I'll get it disposed of as quickly as possible."

Ten minutes went slowly by. She had tried not to let Roger see how much she dreaded the prospect of the witness box. In her present state of nerves she felt she might be guilty of a hundred contradictions and indiscretions, if faced with the basilisk eyes and overpowering personality of the man she began to tremble all over as though with ague. It was perfectly absurd, of course, but there it was. Still now, if she chose, she could face the trying experience as a married woman, as Roger Clifford's wife. That security somehow promised her a new strength, Roger's wife! And in a fortnight's time! A different sort of tremor seized her, a frisson of exquisite joy. . . .

The door opened, Roger came towards her, took her hands again in his, and looked at her closely. She grew apprehensive of what he had to tell her.

"What is it? What has happened?"

"Don't be frightened. They have caught Sartorius. They captured him aboard a fruit-boat in the harbor, about an hour ago. The boat was under sailing orders, bound for a port in Morocco, they think the captain was a friend of Sartorius. Anyway, they surrounded the doctor in the street, he didn't put up any fight—simply looked at them, blew his nose, and followed them up without a word."

"She stared at him blankly, wondering what more he had to say."

"Yes—go on. What then?"

"They handcuffed him, of course, and let him sit between two of them in the car. He was quite composed, said nothing to say. It was dark in the car, they couldn't see him very well. One of the officers thought he leaned against him pretty heavily. When they got to the station he didn't get up, didn't move at all."

"What do you mean?"

"He did us a good turn, Father. He was quite dead—poisoned, beyond doubt."

"Poisoned! I wonder how he did it?"

"It is amazing, isn't it? It was the stolid calmness of the fellow that put them off, I suppose. They think he must have taken something he had ready when he blew his nose."

"She looked at him, her pupils dilated, trying to adjust her ideas to this new development. She felt strangely bewildered."

"It seems so—so stupid! I can't take it in. A clever man like that . . . first to run away, then to throw up the sponge."

"I know, that's the way it strikes me, too," he seemed at the last so lacking in resource. Still, he was probably like one of those big, heavy cars that are wonderful on the straight, but can't turn quickly in a sharp corner. Take one of those two—"

"Or the Juggernaut," she suggested slowly.

"By Jove, yes, the Juggernaut . . . he was like that."

He looked at her with an awful realization of how near her slender body had come to being ruthlessly crushed by the human machine—simply because it happened to put itself in the path. That he, too, had all unconsciously been in the path and had barely escaped destruction was now in minor importance.

For several seconds Esther stood with her hands against her head, making an effort to grasp, to envisage, the whole of her strange adventure. Since she had set foot in Cannes two months ago she had watched an old man done slowly to death, had saved a life that meant everything to her, and had been directly responsible for the events leading up to two deaths. What a part she had played! She could scarcely take it in.

She came out of her reverie to find herself in Roger's strong arms, his lips warm upon hers. Thought deserted her for a breathless moment.

"Do you know what I'm thinking?" he whispered in what might be termed the first conscious interval.

"There may not be any pressing necessity for an immediate wedding and yet."

"Yes," she murmured, her face against his, her heart beating fast.

"Well, a fortnight is a pretty long engagement—at least for me. What do you say?"

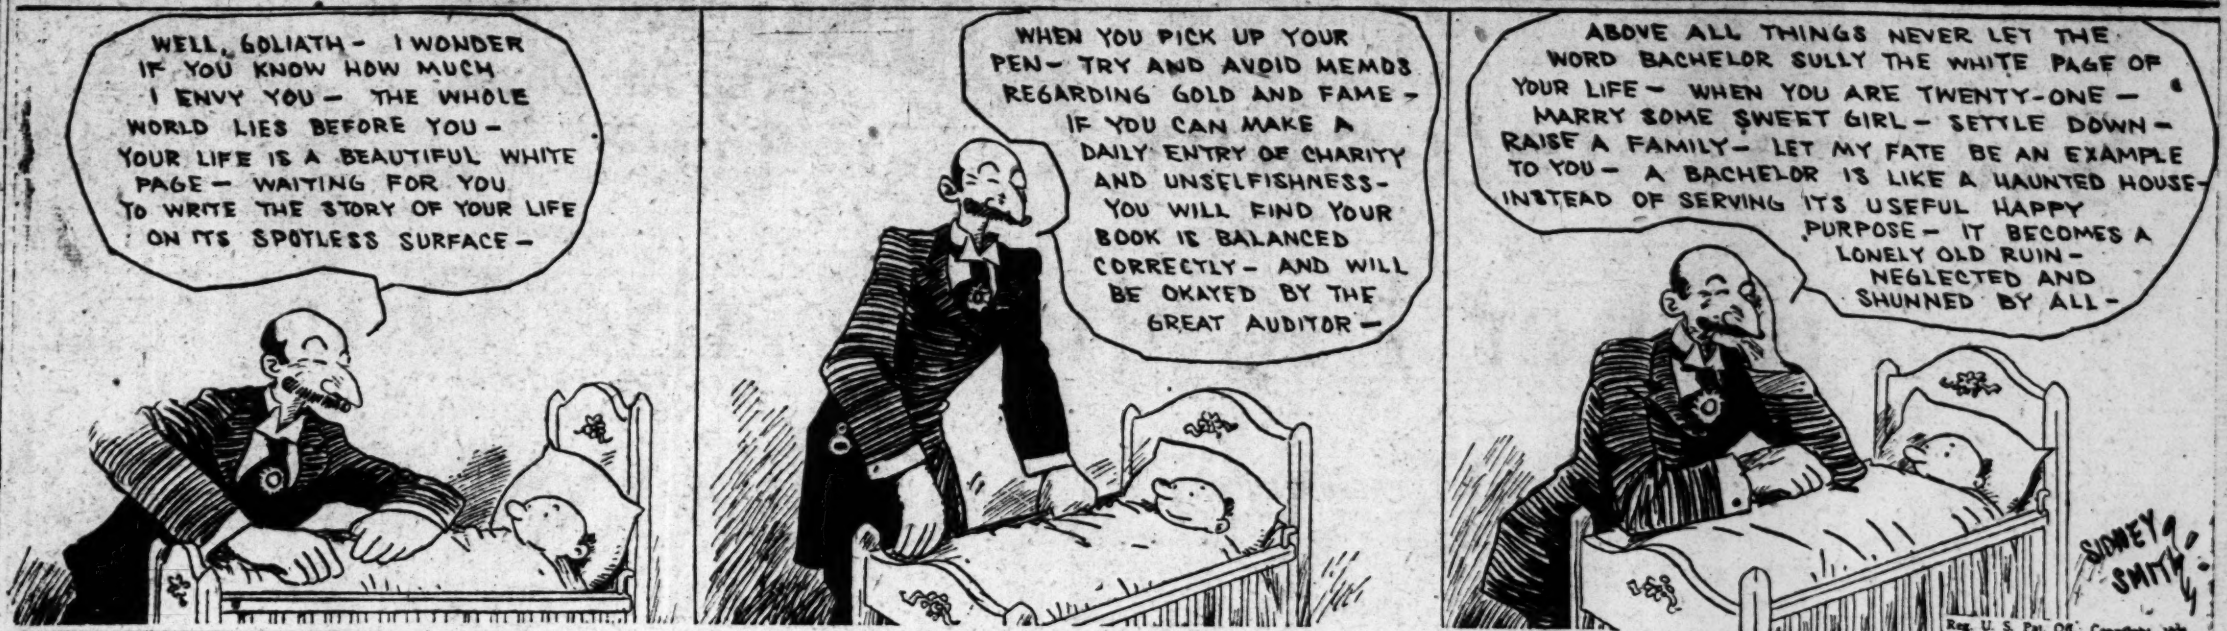

Her answer, somewhat muffled, came after a long pause.

"Since you force me to admit it," she whispered against his neck, "it's quite long enough for me—too!"

The End.

Sworn Statements to the U. S. Government Further Emphasize the Dominance of THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

PURSUANT to an act of Congress, passed in 1912, every daily newspaper in the United States is required to make semi-annual statements to the United States Government, sworn as to accuracy, giving among other things, the net paid circulation of the publication for the preceding six months. The sworn statements of the three Atlanta newspapers were published during the past week in compliance with this requirement and they are all subject to the A.B.C. Audit. You, as a subscriber to The Constitution, will be interested to note that your newspaper has risen to new heights in point of circulation. Comparison of the sworn statements for the six-month period ending March 31, 1928, with similar statements of a year ago reveal the following interesting information:

	Daily and Sunday average for the 6 mo. ending Mar. 31, 1928	Daily and Sunday average for the 6 mo. ending Mar. 31, 1927	GAIN in 1 year

The Atlanta Constitution today has the largest home-delivered circulation of any daily newspaper in Atlanta. It has the largest total city circulation of any daily newspaper in Atlanta. It has the largest combined city and suburban circulation of any daily newspaper in Atlanta. It has the largest total net paid circulation of any daily newspaper in Atlanta. It has the largest total net paid circulation of any daily newspaper in the vast section including the states of North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Alabama, the heart of the Southeast.

Local and national advertisers are learning every day of the remarkable reader response that follows the consistent use of the advertising columns of this newspaper. The Constitution's strongest asset is a reader confidence built up over a period of sixty years. Its circulation supremacy, maintained over a period of years, cannot be questioned. The combination of these two essential elements is available to advertisers in the form of RESULTS!
